PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Isn't it interesting how life throws us curve balls? To quote Robert Burns in his poem, "To a Mouse" of 1786, "The best laid plans of mice and men often go awry".

My plans were completely changed one day recently. The weather forecast was for 41 degrees Celsius (that's 105.8 degrees Fahrenheit for our readers overseas!) so I decided to stay inside in the cool. Then my sisters reminded me we were going out for lunch for my birthday, but I figured it was just locally and we'd be removed from direct heat in our cars and then at a café, all well equipped with air-conditioning.

However, mid morning I received a call from one sister to say she had heard that our youngest sister had fallen whilst walking her dog and had fractured a bone in her shoulder. Her husband had taken her to the local hospital where she was still in Emergency, awaiting X-rays. After we took our patient home we all had a good chat and it was a fun day – well, apart from the injury. I always love sitting down with my pendulum to seek answers from my Higher Self which I believe "knows it all". I find that when life seems to get too hard dowsing with a pendulum can be a wonderful guide.

I hope you will be able to attend our first meeting for 2016 on 21 February. We begin another year of interesting speakers about dowsing or related subjects, conversation with like-minded people, and an over all opportunity to learn more about dowsing.

I'd also like to mention that when we hold our second meeting, the AGM in April, we'll be asking for members to consider helping our Society to continue to run smoothly.

Heather Wilks has been editing this Newsletter since 2007 and is looking for someone to come forward to take it over. We would also like someone to step in to support Tony Hill who runs our sound/recording system. There are times when our dates conflict with his other commitments so it would be wonderful for someone to come forward for Tony to train.

Meanwhile I look forward to seeing you on Sunday 21 February for Malcolm and Judy's presentation. Feel free to bring along some of your friends!! It's sure to be fun and fascinating.

Lyn Wood, President

OUR NEXT MEETING

For our next meeting on Sunday 21 February we are delighted to welcome DSV Treasurer Malcolm Davies and his wife, DSV Member, Judy Boyd to present for us for the first time. Judy and Malcolm will speak about "Moving On, helping Human Spirits to Go Home". Over time they noticed that their cockatiel, "Peaches", was exhibiting some unusual behaviour patterns. They began to suspect that there were some spirits "stuck" and lingering in their home. So they used their pendulums to ask for answers.

Judy & Malcolm

What they had expected to be perhaps a simple, one-off experience developed further. They'll share with us the amazing journey of discoveries that unfolded through Peaches which led to many spirits being helped to move on from their home.

OUR LAST MEETING

At our last meeting for 2015 in November we were so pleased to welcome Juliet Gauci. She explained some of the fascinating family history and her experiences which have encouraged her work in Astrology and Palmistry.

Juliet spoke about her views on Fate versus Destiny and the significance of following our guidance and intuitive prompts.

Juliet Gauci (nee Gunning)

Juliet talked about the energies and planetary influences expected for 2016. She generously gave some reading insights and provided a number of over all predictions.

BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU DRILL FOR

With thanks to Guy Hudson, Member of the British Society of Dowzers who was a trustee of the Society for six years and chaired the water divining Special Interest group for two years. © 2013

One day, I had a typical request to go and divine for a new water source. It was from an experienced engineer – they were having trouble locating a source of water, about five miles away from my home. Next morning, I duly arrived on site. A very large new house was being built near the top of a hill with fine views over the Sussex Weald, and a new lake basin had been prepared but was empty.

PENDULUM POWER THROUGH THE AGES

Edited from an article by New Zealander Kimberley Paterson, Generation Spirit.

Like many bodies of knowledge, information about the pendulum has been passed down through the generations, at times the wisdom almost lost, before surging once again to the fore in another period.

Some of the world's most famous people - scientists included - have worked with the pendulum including Albert Einstein, Sir Isaac Newton, Thomas Edison, Lloyd George, Leonardo da Vinci.

In modern times dowser Verne Cameron's skill was such that he was considered a security risk and refused permission to leave the country when, in 1959, he was able to demonstrate to US Navy officials that he could locate the position and depth of all US submarines in the Pacific.

It's thought that the earliest use of pendulum power comes from a prehistoric cave in Libya, where pictographs show human figures holding the water diviner's forked stick. The paintings are thought to be around 6000 years old.

The Egyptians used it in agriculture, ancient Chinese emperors used a ring suspended on a silken thread to predict the future and it's also long been used in China in the art of feng shui. Dowsing was also known to the Persians, Hebrews, Greeks, Druids, in ancient Peruvian civilisations and among the American Indian and Central African cultures.

Reports of dowsing come to us from down through the ages. Medieval monks in the 11th and 15th centuries used dowsing, while German folklore is rich in its tales of magical rods and those with dowsing ability.

Abbe Mermet - A towering figure in the history of modern dowsing was French priest Abbe Mermet. Incredibly skilled at locating sources of water and minerals around the world - all by using his pendulum from his office near Geneva - Abbe Mermet also found missing people simply by dowsing over their photographs.
