PRESIDENT'S REPORT

While I was reflecting on what to write in my last President's Report for 2014, I thought about our DSV website. It think it's wonderful that people Google about dowsing and find us that way.

Recently I've received a number of calls from people wanting to know more about the DSV. I've been able to connect some of our members and Committee members with various ones who were looking for dowsing assistance. One person had just bought a property in the country and wanted a dowser to determine whether there was underground water suitable to sink a bore and to dowse to find any underground springs.

Another person wanted dowsing help to find a lost object. Someone else wanted assistance in finding a safe place on a new property to build their home. Yet another person was seeking dowsing assistance to heal a 'sick home'. These inquiries covered many facets of dowsing and serve as a reminder of how far-reaching the work can be. It shows that more and more people are discovering that dowsing involves a great deal more than finding water.

With the surge in interest, Heather Wilks and I are looking at possibly running our separate workshops again. I hold mine over two afternoons, usually on a Saturday. In my Basic Dowsing class I teach beginners how to get their pendulum/rods moving and I touch on many things that dowsing can be used for. I tend to allow people a month or more to practice and then hold an Advanced Dowsing workshop which goes into more detail about geopathic stress in particular but also other aspects of dowsing.

Heather likes to run one-day workshops. As well as introducing dowsing to beginners, she helps dowers having difficulty trusting their dowsing, to build their confidence. She covers a lot of advanced dowsing with a focus on using dowsing to heal. And she told us at the last meeting that she's almost finished writing her dowsing ebook.

If you'd like to learn more about dowsing at a workshop run by either of us, please contact us for details.

I was very grateful to our Committee members for their prayers, healing and support for me after I broke my arm. More recently they've been supporting Shahla Deeby, our long-time member who also broke her arm in a fall and has since had major surgery. Please add to the Committee's absent healings to support her while she is recovering. We can then look forward to welcoming her back with a cheery smile over those afternoon teas she kindly arranges for us. Thanks to everyone for sending healing support to Shahla.

OUR NEXT MEETING

For our next meeting on Sunday 30 November we have another new speaker. Mari Metcalfe is a DSV member of both the DSV and the British Dowzers – attending meetings for both – Mari is in a fairly unique position. She can provide us with dowsing perspectives from both the northern and southern hemispheres.

Mari will present to us on the topic of “Archaeological Dowsing”. She has recently returned from Dorchester On Thames, 8 miles (13 km) from Oxford in Britain.

Depiction of Roman archifacts

The Director of Archaeology in the British Dowsing Society investigated her garden and with his dowsing was able to verify not only her suspected Roman road, but a Roman wall at the boundary of her property as well.

OUR LAST MEETING

Mike Morrison introduced us to his Earth Guarden composter, the Bio Fuel system he created for composting kitchen scraps. He described it as an apartment house for worms!

He also introduced us to some exciting new prospects that are now in his sights, which hold great promise in terms of putting a great deal of waste products to valuable use in the environment. This covered items like finely-ground glass for use as a fertiliser – a great way to overcome discarded glass bottles etc. Another was the value of old coffee grounds as a magic compost ingredient. He was excited about the possibilities of sheep manure as a powerful fertiliser ingredient. And he shared his excitement about a new high-speed lawn clipping composting technique he'd discovered.

Mike's BioFuelCells are available for purchase from his site: <http://www.earthgarden.com>

GONE IN 60 SECONDS

By Mick Moran, DSV Life-member.

There are many forms of energy around us. Most we know about, but there are some most people have never heard of. The energy I'm referring to here are earth energies. All matter is made up of vibrational energy. This also includes humans. We are all surrounded by an energy field, sometimes called an aura. The earth is no different. It is a living breathing entity and is emitting all kinds of energies, some good, some not so good. About my latest experiences ....
